

PORTLAND PLANS FOR 1925 WORLD'S FAIR

Portland, Ore., Dec. 14.—Portland has accomplished the first step in plans for the holding of a world's fair here in 1925—endorsement by the voters of a $2,000,000 tax levy to be spread over three years—and attention is now directed to the second effort in the financing of the project, approval by the people of the state of a $2,000,000 tax, which added to the amount Portland will raise and $1,000,000 to be obtained by public subscription will complete the financing.

A state-wide election will be necessary to get sanction for the $2,000,000 tax, and this will not be held until the primary next May. In the meantime the state legislature in special session will be called upon to submit this proposal formally to the people.

Pending the final approval of financial plans the working out of details of the exposition are held in tentative shape.

Committee of representative citizens of Portland and the state, however, have engaged in a spirited rivalry for the location of the fair. A half dozen or more available sites have been offered, and the committee in charge has issued a questionnaire intended to develop all facts concerning each proposed location, and careful consideration will be given each before a site is selected.

The fair, officially designated as The Atlantic-Pacific Highway and Electrical Exposition, was projected to celebrate the completion of transcontinental highways and the centennial of the invention of the electric magnet.

SAYS IT HAS ADDED YEARS TO HIS LIFE

Engineer Feels Better Than in Twenty Years and Is Confident of Complete Recovery.

"It's a fact, my first bottle of Tanlac put my stomach in better condition than it had been for twenty years," was the truly remarkable statement made by Fred W. Deming, well known stationary engineer for the Windham Silk Mill, residing at 41 1-2 Spring St., Willimantic, Conn.

"Yes, sir, Tanlac is fast relieving me of a case of stomach trouble that has bothered me for thirty-five years. I had a terrible time, and just as regular as I ate a meal my food soured, gas formed, and I suffered in spite of everything I could do. At times it seemed like the bloating would choke me, my heart thumped like an engine, and I could get no permanent help.

"Tanlac gave me immediate relief, and I've only had three or four spells of indigestion since I started taking it. I have taken two bottles now, and although I scarcely feel a trace of my troubles, I intend to keep on taking it for some time, in order to be sure its work is well done. I used to feel heavy, lousy, tired and uncomfortable after meals, and mornings I felt so bad I could hardly get up; but all that's in the past now, and I actually feel like Tanlac has added years to my life."

Tanlac is sold in Norwich by National Drug Stores Corp., and Taftville Pharmacy and in Plainfield by F. L. Mercier; Chas. R. Carey, Jewett City, Conn.; Dearnley & Clarke, Voluntown, Conn.
